A Recruit from the Grave.

The war has produced many strange stories, but few more singular than the following one, related by Col. Ellis, late of the First Missouri Cavalry, in a St. Louis paper :

A few days after a fiercely contested battle a party of soldiers belonging to the First Missouri took a jaunt over the battle-field, and came up to a spot where the rebel dead were buried. In one place the hair of a man's head was seen sticking out of the ground like a tuft of grass, and near by a hand was seen protruding upwards, which evidently belonged to the corpse that owned the head of hair. One of the cavalrymen remarked to his companions, in a spirit of thoughtless levity, "See, there's a dead reb, reaching out for something; let's see what he wants." In the same spirit of wanton mischief, almost recklessness, the cavalrymen took hold of the man's hand and hauled the body out of the grave, the loosedirt falling back into the shallow hole. Soon after the man began to stir, and manifested signs of life, to the utter astonishment and horror of the resurrectionists. The man was taken by his rescuers to their tent and rubbed down, washed off, and in a few days became as "good as new." He said that in the batle he was stunned by the passage of a shell which knocked him senseless. He was picked up among the dead and buried like the rest. Not a scratch was found on his body. He said that he had joined the rebel army, and fought the Federals long and well, but as this was his second appearance on earth he would now join the Federals and fight for them. He accordingly enlisted in the First Missouri, did a good deal of tough marching and hard lighting, and | Which I will sell at manufacturers prices, comprise ast September was mustered out of service and paid | ing the following valuable machines off at Benton Barracks.

A Strange Story.

A BIT OF MEMPHIS ROMANCE.

Ten years ago Mr. - was married to Miss -For a time all went well with the happy pair, but whether prompted by incompatibility of temper or through the meddlesome interference of relatives or friends, "ye chronicler" knoweth not, only that the demon of discord breathed upon their young love, and it withered as a flower 'neath winter's chilling breath. And, to make a long story short, they separated. Shortly after the separation a little daughter was born, and then a divorce obtained—by which party obtained it matters not. For nine years-long, weary years-they lived apart, never hearing from or speaking of each other; and yet both remaining true to love's first bright dream .-The little girl grew up and was taught to believe that her father was dead. She had never seen him, or been seen by him. Ah! who shall say how often during those long, dreary years the father's heart yearned for the sight of his child, and pined to hear the music of her voice.

And the mother-the wife that was-was she happy? Who shall tell? Well, on the day before yesterday the lady, accompanied by her little daughter, walked into a business house in this city, and met him who was once her husband and the father of her child coming out. They stood face to face for the first time since their separation—nine years ago.— Both stopped and gazed fixedly into each other's face. The father then turned his eyes to the child, and stooping down suddenly, caught her in his arms
-pressed her passionately to his bosom-rained a shower of kisses upon her face; then, placing her on the floor, he gave one glance at the mother, and turned to go. Hearing his name called in a low tone, he turned. One look, and they were in each other's arms. They were left alone for a few mo-ments by the considerate kindness of the parties present. Then a back was called, and in thirty minutes from their first meeting they were married. -Memphis Avalanche.

Slips of the Pen.

Gen. Taylor immortalized himself by perpetrating one of the grandest bulls on record, in which he attained what a certain literary professor calls "a perfection hardly to be surpassed." In his Presidential address he announced to the American Congress that the United States were at peace with all the world, and continued to cherish relations of amity with the rest of mankind." Much simpler was the blunder of an English officer, during the Indian muti- | Points or Mould-Boards can be had at any | ny, who informed the public, through the Times, that thanks to the prompt measures of Colonel Edward, the sepoys at Fort Machison, "were all unarmed and taken aback, and being called upon laid down their arms." Addison lays it down as a maxim, that when a nation HOUSEKEEPERS' GOODS, abounds in physicians it grows thin of people. Filibuster Henningson seems to have WOODEN WARE, &c., &c., &c. agreed with the assayist or he would hardly have informed General Walker, in one ef his dispatches that "Doctors Rice and Wolfe died of the cholera, and Dr. Lindley sickened, after which the health of the camp visibly improved." Intentionally or not, the stout-hearted soldier suggests that the best way to get rid of the cholera is to make short work of the doctors. Among the obituary notices in a weekly paper, not many months ago, there appeared the name esteemed for his strict probity and steady conduct through life, he having been a sub- | Can be furnished cheaper than you can buy scriber to the Sunday Times from its first number." ### Important Decision of the Quartermaster General.

The Quartermaster General refuses to pay for property used during the war for military purposes in the Southern States. The following decision has just been made in a case where vouchers had been given; by order of a commanding general, for the use of a blacksmith shop and tools belonging to a loyal citizen of Winchester, Virgi-

"Winchester was a hostile town, captured from an enemy who did not surrender on terms, but were driven out by force of arms; everything in it was prize of war; as at Atlanta and Charleston, buildings were occupied for shelter of troops, and for sick and wounded soldiers. It does not appear that the Military Department should order payment of any rents under such circumstances.

We understand that this decision will apply to all similar cases arising in the Southern States, even where the claimants pro-
